

Dear UCI Musicians,

Happy week 9! It's a short week, so please enjoy your Thanksgiving and your time off! Please see your Music-related news below, regarding the Symphony Orchestra concert tomorrow, 11/23/21, the Wind Ensemble concert on 11/29/21, and a call for survey participants entitled "Music Performance Anxiety and Self Compassion by Catherine Marshall" open to all Music majors. This is a friendly reminder that evaluations for your fall 2021 courses become active next Monday. Please be sure to look out for the emails including the evaluation links!

Call for Survey Participants from SDSU School of Music and Dance

Dear UCI Music students,

My name is Catherine Marshall, I am a graduate music performance student at San Diego State University, and completed my BM at UC Santa Barbara. I am currently working on a study for my research course with Dr. Karen Koner, concerning music performance anxiety and self-compassion in performance majors, and am hoping to involve all music programs across CSU and UC campuses. If you would be so kind as to take the time to fill out and submit the survey below, I would be so grateful.

Study: Music Performance Anxiety and Self Compassion by Catherine Marshall

Purpose Statement: The purpose of this study is to better understand the correlation between Self-Compassion (SC), Music Performance Anxiety (MPA), and reported satisfaction/fulfillment of career. Specifically the following research questions are addressed: (1) do university student musicians with higher scores of SC show lower scores of MPA? And (2) do university student musicians with higher scores of self-compassion feel more fulfilled as a musician?

Survey Link: https://sdsu.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_7QWOfxn002PEt8

This survey will take less than 10 minutes. Thank you for your time!
